By Isaac Okyere

Pastor Patrick Dadeako

Presiding pastor of the Perez Chapel International, Goshen Temple, at Foase in the Atwima Kwawonma constituency in the Ashanti region, Pastor Patrick Kwasi Dadeako, has revealed that a lot of pregnant women under strange circumstances will get missing and killed for rituals while others are likely to be kidnapped if optimum care is not taken.

Pastors, prophets and other spiritualists often declare prophecies likely to happen within every new year year at end including events that will take place in the year. These good working people of the gospel receive the Lord's voice and inform the people accordingly.

Pastor Patrick Dadeako as part of the year 2015 Prophecies indicated that God revealed these to him, through the Holy Spirit.

The respected man of God was speaking in an exclusive interview with ModernGhana.

"This year, I see that most pregnant women will die, and issue of pregnant women getting missing under very strange circumstances shall emerge at an alarming rate. A lot of evil people will be seeking to engage in blood Money especially the youth, and will be using pregnant women for their rituals," he reiterated.

According to Pastor Dadeako, some big names and prominent personalities shall be called to eternal glory to join their ancestors including, some controversial TV and Radio personalities.

He further went on to state that some innocent people will be arrested in connection with these strange matters.

Touching on the economy, the pastor prophesied that the country's economy this year will regain strength but urged leaders to be responsible in protecting the resources of the state and the national purse at large.

"I saw bundles of money coming from heaven sprinkling upon the good people of Ghana. This means that the financial economy will flourish if government make good use of the available resources".

This, he said, will enable businesses and companies to gain grounds.

He said, though God had made these revelations it would require a big deal of action and prayers by both public and government to turn things around.

He advised the government to take effective measures to control corruption in his various sectors so as to protect his dignity as president.

He said, God has good plans for Ghana this year, but cannot be realized if government failed to enhance good policy to make it a reality.

He charged government to strengthen policies formulated by past Presidents that could cushion the economy of Ghana to make it better.

"Government should at least learn something from the European countries that can be tapped to support our economy"

He also had a word of advice for the youth as well:

"I would also like to caution the youth to desist from the get-rich-quick attitude which often encourages bloody money and instead work with their hands and be more prayerful to God. 2015 is a blessing and victory year therefore we must all make efforts to tap into the blessings awaiting us from God."
